led by God can lead the world. Labor can be the uniting force that binds nations together. Communism says: "Workers of the world, unite." MRA says: "Workers, unite the world."

WHY DID IT HAPPEN?
Governor Dewey has given his opinion on the cause that led to the defeat of the Republican party in last week's presidential election. Over-confidence in Dewey was responsible for at least two million Republican voters neglecting to turn out at the polls, is Mr. Dewey's view.

That over-confidence to be sure, was shared throughout the civilized world and is forfeit testimony to the effect of propaganda. The Democratic party, the other hand, with the exception of President Truman himself, certainly appeared to be almost resigned to the probability of defeat. For this frame of mind, there were adequate reasons in the known facts of the split in the party—or, perhaps, it will now be recognized that as much as a split in the party's ranks as in those of its leaders. In the result, neither Mr. Dewey nor the so-called Southern Democrats proved to be much of a threat to Mr. Truman.

Whether Governor Dewey is right in his summing up of the election is controversial. What became plainly evident, however, is that there were many millions of United States citizens ready to place their faith in Harry Truman, the man who had tried to do something about the steadily rising in the prices of commodities essential to their well-being, but whose efforts were frustrated by the Congress. Add to this the labor unions' resentment of the Taft-Hartley law, the maybe, we have a more correct appraisal of last week's event.

From a political viewpoint, too, there is much to be learned from the United States election. Without venturing to prophesy, it looks as though Communism may emerge among free peoples, it loomed to a thin time, at least in the foreseeable future.

DRIVER TRAINING IS TOPIC FOR A.M.A. MEET

Driver training courses in Alberta high schools was one of the main subjects for discussion at the annual meeting of the Alberta Motor Association held in Calgary, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 5 and 6.

Most of these courses are supervised when the A.M.A. provincial board held its semi annual meeting in June.

George Davidson, president of the Alberta Department of Education, has been designated to accept such courses for the provincial curriculum, officials of the A.M.A. plan to continue their advocacy of this type of training in the schools to bring about a reduction in motor accidents. Since school boards have voiced their deep interest in and support of such course.

In the U.S. there have been spectacular gains in driver education and training in the high schools during the past year. Up to the end of June, a total of 228,000 high school boys and girls received behind the wheel training in dual control cars. In 1947, only 47,000 youngsters received such training.

Manufacturers and dealers in the U.S. are co-operating whole-heartedly in making dual control cars available for use in driver education courses in the schools. Various groups have reported that as a result there has been a marked reduction in motor accidents.

When I insist, you resist.
